

POWERSOFT SIGNS AGREEMENT WITH HOLOPLOT FOR THE SUPPLY OF AMPLIFICATION MODULES FOR A NEW IMMERSIVE VENUE, WORTH APPROXIMATELY € 6 MILLION

Scandicci (Florence), 30 September 2026 - Powersoft S.p.A. ("Powersoft"), the parent company of a technology group (the "Powersoft Group") operating worldwide in the professional audio systems sector and listed on Euronext Growth Milan, announces that it has signed a new agreement for the supply of amplification modules with Holoplot GmbH ("HOLOPLOT"), a German company operating in the market for technologies and systems for professional audio applications, for the development of a new immersive venue featuring advanced technology.

The agreement builds on the collaboration between Powersoft and HOLOPLOT that began in 2019 and has already resulted in the supply of innovative amplification solutions for the audio system at Sphere in Las Vegas. It confirms the continuity of a partnership developed through international projects characterised by a high degree of technological complexity.

For this new project, Powersoft will contribute innovative audio systems for a venue that will represent the new frontier of entertainment, providing audiences with an immersive audio and video experience.

More specifically, the system consists of Powersoft's compact, ultra-high-efficiency 16-channel amplifiers integrated into the HOLOPLOT X1 audio system. The installation leverages Powersoft technology to deliver significant energy savings compared with traditional amplifiers, maximising efficiency without compromising sound quality.

In addition to the 16-channel amplifiers integrated into the HOLOPLOT X1 Matrix Array, Powersoft will supply its patented IPAL (Integrated Powered Adaptive Loudspeaker) technology, used in the X1 system's subwoofers. IPAL optimises low-frequency acoustic performance by responding to operating conditions in real time, enhancing the performance of the system regardless of load and acoustic conditions.

The total value of the supply agreement is approximately € 6 million. Deliveries are expected to take place in several tranches and will be completed during 2027, enabling HOLOPLOT to complete its supply in line with the project schedule and the planned opening of the venue.

Dominik Unützer, CEO of HOLOPLOT, commented: "As the leading player in 3D audio beamforming, HOLOPLOT chose Powersoft's 16-channel amplifiers and IPALs because they combine a remarkably compact footprint with ultra-high efficiency. Powersoft is a recognized leader in amplification technology, and their products give our systems outstanding performance and reliability. We greatly value our strong relationship with Powersoft and look forward to continuing our successful collaboration".

Luca Giorgi, Sales Director of Powersoft, commented: “We are pleased to once again partner with HOLOPLOT and contribute our expertise to the development of another spectacular venue. For this new high-tech entertainment destination, we will provide a technologically advanced audio system designed to offer audiences the best possible interactive and fully immersive experience, while at the same time delivering considerable energy savings and reducing environmental impact. Being among the companies involved in this project further confirms our leadership in high-end audio systems on the international stage”.
